Sundowner and book launch
Thursday 2 February

We welcome you to network and enjoy a drink or two and some finger food with colleagues at our Sundowner at Club Murdoch after day 1 of the Forum. One of the best aspects of conferences is getting to informally meet fellow academics.

Club Murdoch is our staff club, and they are providing the catering for all aspects of the forum. Club M has a picturesque, outdoor shaded area, and an air-conditioned interior if the weather is hot. The Sundowner is proudly supported by one of our major sponsors, Unicredit. Please check out their special offer about “no fees on home loans”.

The Sundowner will also showcase the achievements of two Murdoch academics in the field of e-learning. Routledge publishes an international series of books called Connecting with E-learning. Of the five books in the series, three have been written by Australians, and two have lead authors from Murdoch University.

The Sundowner will include a book launch of those two books, with authors Professor Jan Herrington, School of Education, and Associate Professor Rob Phillips, Educational Development Unit.
The Higher Education Research and Development Society of Australasia (HERDSA)

About HERDSA

The Higher Education Research and Development Society of Australasia is a scholarly society for people committed to the advancement of higher and tertiary education. It promotes the development of higher education policy, practice and the study of teaching and learning. HERDSA has members across Australia and in Hong Kong and New Zealand. There are branches in most states which aim to promote practices within their state by offering professional learning, networking and events.

HERDSA also publishes the journal Higher Education Research and Development, regular print-based and email newsletters and ‘Green Guides’ – short, practical books about learning and teaching approaches. The HERDSA Fellowship scheme recognises high quality reflective practitioners in higher education. HERDSA web-page: http://www.herdsa.org.au/

About HERDSA WA

In line with HERDSA’s international and national aims, the WA Branch of HERDSA promotes a scholarly society for people committed to the advancement of higher and tertiary education. HERDSA WA runs a series of free seminars from local, national and international presenters. As a follow-up from the annual HERDSA conference, the WA Branch hosts a half-day mini-conference named ‘HERDSA Rekindled’, which reprises presentations by the WA conference presenters. We welcome you to join as a member to this friendly and collegial group. Simply go to http://www.herdsa.org.au/?page_id=36.

The HERDSA WA Branch has been a long-term partner of the Teaching and Learning Forum, and will hold its annual general meeting at lunchtime on Thursday the 2nd of February. Please drop by and join us at the AGM. It’s very informal, and you won’t be required to do anything! See the WA Branch website: http://our.murdoch.edu.au/Educational-Development/Scholarship-of-T-and-L/HERDSA-WA/
Welcome

On behalf of the Teaching and Learning Forum Committee I welcome you to the 21st Teaching and Learning Forum. It is a tribute to the various organising committees over the years, starting at Curtin University in 1992, that the Forum has continued to prosper as a joint venture between the five Western Australian universities. It is also a tribute to the regular forum-goers among you, who continue to contribute to the vibrancy of the Forum.

2012 marks a change in the management in the Teaching and Learning Forum, with the formal establishment of the WA Network for Dissemination (WAND), which is supported for two years with legacy funding from the Australian Learning and Teaching Council. WAND is an overarching body overseeing three annual activities, of which the Teaching and Learning Forum is one. The others are the existing one-day WAND Sharing Day in November, and a mid-year workshop about skills required for learning and teaching grants and awards. The WAND steering committee sets general directions for the Teaching and Learning Forum Conference Committee, which oversees and manages the Forum.

In 2012, we want to return the Forum to its original roots by encouraging more discussion and interactivity in the sessions. We have a great range of presentations, workshops and plenary sessions which we hope will be thought-provoking and energising as the new academic year approaches.

I’d like to thank the committee for their efforts in what has been a rather short preparation period for this year’s Forum. We especially appreciate the contributions of our sponsors, which help to keep the registration costs low. Finally, I’d like to record a special vote of thanks to Clare McBeath and Roger Atkinson, who have for many years done a sterling job of managing the paper submission and proceedings publication process. Well done, you two!

Editorial

Table 1 presents our standard summary of numbers of submissions and outcomes for TL Forum 2012. Table 2 provides an eight year overview, which suggests upon initial perusal that "steady state" and "sustainable" (a phrase used in the 2010 Editorial [1]) remain the most apt descriptors for the series, now numbering 21 Forums (1992-2012) [3].

With the descriptors "steady state" and "sustainable" in mind, we looked back at the editorial advice offered in the TL Forum 2011 Proceedings [1]. Can we perceive an optimistic update that we can give to authors of full papers, and to the authors of abstract only presentations who are 'working up' their research and professional practice activities towards a full paper? Not readily! Perhaps the best that can be done is a repetition of last year's advice, in particular Richard Winter's perspective on writing as an act of learning:

"...writing up a report is an act of learning and in this sense, we write for ourselves so that, when we read what we have written, we find out what, in the end, we have learned". [2]

This sense of a continuing degree of pessimism about conference publication is based on a perusal of the publicly available documentation that the Australian Research Council has provided to date on its ERA 2012 process [3]. The 2012 Submission Guidelines relating to "Conference Publications - Full Paper Refereed" are almost identical to the 2010 version, though of course the 2012 documentation has deleted all references to "Tiers". The key sentence in both 2010 and 2012 is:
Institutions are required to submit information on all eligible peer reviewed conference publications for each year of the research outputs reference period. [4]

The question that may arise in the minds of at least some authors could be, "What recognition do I (and my university) receive for a conference publication of research?", or in a manner more colloquial, "Why bother?" The ARC's FAQs on ERA 2012 conference publications [5], contains the question, "How do I know if my conference publication should be submitted for ERA 2012?", but the reader has to sift much further to obtain information on "What recognition ...". However, rather than digging deeper in that direction, let's turn instead to a reiteration of one of the positive perspectives in the 2011 Editorial [1]:

A number of perspectives may be entertained. One perspective is the view that TL Forum's core strength is the interchange of ideas that will benefit teaching and learning, and research is secondary, though of course research underlies all endeavours to improve teaching and learning ...

Continuing the positive perspective theme, we hope that your participation, as presenters and as members of the audiences in presentations, will be as Rob Phillips has stated above, "... thought-provoking and energising as the new academic year approaches."
